Applicant argues that the special feature linking the two inventions is not the “dewatering, shredding, transporting and ozone bleaching” of SHACKFORD, but is the “gas tight conduit … for transporting the shredded pulp from the outlet of the pulp shredding device to the reaction vessel”. Such special feature linking the two inventions is taught by WO 9605365. Thus Claim 11 is either obvious over or anticipated by WO 9605365. Accordingly, the special feature linking the two inventions, a gas tight conduit for transporting the shredded pulp from the outlet of the pulp-shredding device to the reaction vessel, does not provide a contribution over the prior art, and no single general inventive concept exists. Therefore, restriction is appropriate. The restriction requirement of Paper No. 6 is repeated and made Final.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 17-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over WO 97/05324 in view of WO 96/05365.

WO 97/05324 teaches dewatering device (Figure 3) for dewatering the pulp to a consistency of at least 20% (20), shredding (80, 96) device (Figure 4) including a closed pulp shredding vessel (52), transporting conduit (106) and a reaction vessel (54) for bleaching the shredded pulp with ozone (74). WO 96/05365 teaches “gas-sealingly conveying” (page 2, lines 6-7) high consistency (page 2, lines 22-23) shredded pulp through a conveyor having a pulp inlet and outlet (page 2, lines 7-12). During operation the pulp is conveyed through conveyor 16', which carries screw 24 and shaft 22' is provided with breaker arms 40. The screw and breaker arms would keep the pulp passing through the conduit non-compressed as they break up the pulp (page 4, line 25-page 5, line 4). WO 96/05365 teaches that in gas phase bleaching of pulp, downstream of the conveyor would be a vessel having a gaseous reagent which may be toxic or otherwise objectionable and teaches that it is important that the gas does not leak through the conveyor into the atmosphere (page 3, lines 14-22). WO 96/05365 further teaches gas sealing the conduit by using a pressure sensor (36) and differential controller (38) to maintain an upstream pressure greater than the downstream pressure to prevent leakage backwards through the conduit. It would have been obvious to the artisan to prevent the ozone gas of WO/97 05324 from leaking backwards through the pulp in conduit (106) using the pressure-sensor and pressure-regulating device of WO 96/05365. Claim 19; see breaker arms (40) of WO 96/05365

Claim 22 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Claim 22 has not been rejected as the prior art of record does not teach two pressure sensors and two fans and a regulation unit for regulating the capacity of the first and second fan.

When filing an “Official” FAX in Group 1730, please indicate in the Header (upper right) “Official” for papers that are to be entered into the file. The “Official” FAX phone numbers for this TC 1700 are:
